BOULANGER'S SACRIFICE.

Paris, Oct. 12.—Boulanger has been interviewed at St. Helier, on the Island of Jersey. FIGHT AT A SCHOOL BOARD.

London, Oct. 12.—The London school board enjoyed a real American alderman fight last evening, when an attempt was made to oust Conybeare from his seat in the board, because of his recent conviction and imprisonment on the charge of defying the coercion act. As the crime is one, the perpetration of which in every case endears the criminal to at least one half the English people, it can be readily understood that the proposal to unseat Conybeare met with determined resistance and finally resulted in failure. The uproar for a time was awful, and personal violence was threatened, but before the close of the meeting the good sense of the members asserted itself, and it was decided to relegate the whose question to the courts for a decision.

THE EIGHT HOUR SYSTEM.

London, Oct. 12.—The great miners' conference, which has been in session several days, to-day voted to inaugurate an eight-hour working day to all miners, beginning with the 1st of January next.

METHODIST BOARD OF MISSION

Meeting of the Methodist Church—Scale of Appropriations.

The following scale of appropriations was adopted: Married ministers, in towns and cities, $900; in Manitoba, $800; in Newfoundland, $800; in British Columbia and on the Pacific coast, $1,000; in other provinces, $700. The single ordained and unordained ministers in British Columbia and on the Pacific coast is $600 and $580 respectively.

THIS ECLIPSES ALL.

A Bridge Between France and England Probable.

London, Oct. 12.—It has just become known that a most remarkable engineering project was suggested at the recent meeting of the Iron and Steel Institute in Paris. This is nothing less than the erection of a great bridge between France and England, from Cape Grisnez to Folkestone. The length of the bridge would be thirty-two miles and the number of piers one hundred and twenty. The headway for ships would be one hundred and eighty feet and the height from the foundation to the top of the structure six hundred feet. It is proposed to build the bridge entirely of steel. To do this one million tons of steel would be required, and the cost of the bridge it is estimated would amount to about $175,000,000.

FOR BLOOD.

A meeting of the Lacrosse Club was held Thursday evening at Vancouver and the spirit that pervaded it augured well towards redeeming the laurels lost during the week of the provincial fair. Twelve good men advertised for have been found and signed for victory or death. It was decided to challenge Westminster Club for a match to take place on Saturday, Oct. 26th, for the Alhambra cup and the championship of British Columbia. The Westminster team have signified their willingness to accept the challenge, and some dazzling lacrosse is in prospect. Vancouver boys go into training at once.

THE RIFLE.

A rifle match has been arranged for between the Vancouver Rifle Association and the New Westminster Association, to take place at the Vancouver range on Saturday, the 19th inst., ten men a side, Queen's ranges.

BANQUET TO CONNOR.

A testimonial banquet was tendered oarsman William O'Connor at the Albion Hotel, Toronto, on Thursday night, Mayor Clark presiding. Two hundred prominent citizens were at the table. O'Connor was presented with a check for $1000 and a diamond pin.

A COMING RACE

Two boat-pullers of the mainland, McLean, of New Westminster, and Murray, of Vancouver, are anxious to pull a double scull race, and it is understood that Messrs. Bush and Paine, of this city, will accommodate them. Stakes will be fixed at not less than $250 a side, and a good race may be expected.

A THING OF THE PAST.

The Inglorious Fate of the Provincial Exhibition.

The Provincial Agricultural Exhibition is destined to become a thing of the past. A gentleman writes concerning it to the Vancouver News as follows:

"The Provincial Agricultural Exhibition of 1889 being at an end, it may not be out of place to make a few remarks upon the possibilities of the Exhibition being held in the Terminal city in 1890. Having been to the late Exhibition I constantly came in contact with gentlemen from Victoria, who assured me that the enmity that existed between that place and New Westminster was such that there was no possibility of their coming to any terms as regards the Provincial Exhibition. One gentleman assured me that they could gather together a better local exhibit than the one held in Westminster, and that they should not trouble themselves to have the Provincial Exhibition held there, and it appears to me that it would not be amiss, as there are loans asked for the Brockton Point Athletic Club and British Columbia Jocky Club, that our city should be represented by a local Agricultural Exhibition in 1890, as I do not think the citizens of Vancouver would object to a further sum being loaned of $5000 for so good an object, as no citizen could fail to see the amount of good it would do to foster a trade so much needed in this city. There would be no trouble in finding two or three thousand subscribers, as I can name one gentlemen who will undertake to get $1000 himself. Should anyone wish to set the ball rolling they will find a ready helper."

POLICE COURT.

(Before Hon. A. N. Richards, Q. C.)

In the city police court to day a drunk paid $5, and and a citizen for an infraction of the street bylaw contributed a like amount.

United, They Fell.

About half-past three this afternoon four merchant sailors who were in a much mixed state caused by a too free indulgence in the dark extract of rye, were pursuing a devious course down Government street. Their course was crooked, as the legs of the party appeared to more in a quite independent manner to the rest of their bodies and the four were compelled to lock arms to prevent falling. United they stood until James Bay bridge, was reached, when one of them stumbled over some slight obstruction. It was too much for the already shaky balance of the quartette and in a moment the four seafaring men were floundering in some of Victoria's choicest mud. With many objurgations on their eyes and limbs they regained a perpendicular, and a sorry sight they were. Somewhat sobered by the downfall, they took up their tortuous course again, and were soon lost to sight.

Mayor Grant of New York Orders Down Overhead Wires—Crime in Arizona.

Helena, Mont., Oct. 11.—An official canvas made in Jefferson county shows that the Democrats lose Cardwell for State senator, the Republican opponent having a majority of 15. This makes the senate a tie, but the house had a Democratic majority of 7. The official count is progressing slowly, and will not be finished until Saturday.

A PLUCKY WOMAN.

Fordyce, Ark., Oct. 12—A well known negro, named Charles White, last night attempted to enter the sleeping apartment of Mrs. Jolly, a prominent white woman, who ordered him to leave and on his refusal shot him, killing him instantly.

RACE HORSES HURT.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 12.—The Vandalia fast mail, this morning, left the track in this city. The engine and car were wrecked. The car contained the race horses Jeremiah, Nettie and Egmont, and all were seriously injured. J. J. Smith, the owner of Egmont, was badly hurt; Edward Miller was seriously and fireman Wood slightly hurt. The horses were en route for Lexington.

HISTORIC SKELETON.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 10.—A dispatch from Ticonderoga says: The village is greatly excited over a discovery made to-day by workmen digging a sewer. The men came upon a tombstone and coffin and the bones of a human being. The stone was washed off and found to bear an inscription and date of the death of Colonel Howe, who was killed at the head of his regiment at the battle of Ticonderoga, July 8, 1763, in a battle of French forces. The remains will probably be reinterred at once in the village cemetery.

A FRISCO BLAZE.

MAYOR GRANT'S ORDER.

He Orders All Overhead Wires to be Cut Down.

New York, Oct. 12.—As a result of the horrible death of Lineman Feck yesterday among the electric light wires, and many similar fatalities, Mayor Grant ordered all overhead wires cut this afternoon. The electric light companies obtained an injunction. In any event the city is likely to be in partial darkness to-night.

STARVATION STARES THEM.

Relief Wanted for a Hundred Dakota Families.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 12.—Owing to extreme drought there has been a failure of crops in Ramsey county, Dakota, and in consequence over one hundred families are reported to be without any means of subsistence during the coming winter. To-day two lady delegates of the Ramsey county relief committee arrived in St. Paul to personally urge the cause of the sufferers. The ladies brought with them a letter signed by about sixty business firms of Grand Forks and vicinity. Unless relief is received very soon many must die of hunger. The matter of affording relief to the sufferers has been referred by the mayor of St. Paul to the Chamber of Commerce, and by that body placed in the hands of a special committee.

EPISCOPAL HYMN BOOK.

Several Unimportant Changes—The Judicial System Discussed.

New York, Oct. 10.—To-day in the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church the committee on the prayer book reported in favor of substituting Psalm lxix. in the psalms for Good Friday; that the hymn Nunc Dimittus has been legally added to the book of common prayer, and that the insertion of the Athanasian creed is deemed inexpedient. Placed on the calendar.

The committee on constitutional amendments reported in favor of an amendment to the constitution providing that no change shall hereafter be made in the book of common prayer, the psalter or the articles of the constitution, unless it has been adopted by a majority of the house of deputies and house of bishops of one general convention, and similarly approved by the succeeding convention. The resolution was adopted.

The report of the committee on judicial system of the church brought on a long discussion. Finally a vote was taken on a resolution which reads: "In every diocese the mode of trying presbyters and deacons may be instituted by the diocese, except in so far as the general convention shall otherwise provide." The resolution was lost, the vote standing: Clerical, 28 yeas, 18 nays, 5 divided; lay, 23 yeas, 24 nays, 2 divided. Adjourned till to-morrow.

A St. Louis physician asks if men are naturally wiser than women, if they learn more readily from experience and observation. He watched one Sunday evening at a certain street corner the passengers who alighted there for three hours, and gives the following as the result of his observations: Twenty-two ladies got off the cars, sixteen with their faces to the rear, three got straight off the car, and three with their faces frontling the same way the car was going. During the same time, at the same place, forty-five men got off. Thirty of these had their faces the way the car was going, eleven got off straight, and nine with their faces turned backward. There is only one proper way to get off any vehicle, that is with the face turned toward the direction in which it is going or would go if it was in motion—right foot first if getting off on the right side, left foot first if on the left side.

THE VANCOUVER POLICE

Justice Drake Busy Getting at the Truth of the Charges.

On Thursday Mr. Justice Drake held an investigation at Vancouver into the charges against the Chief of Police, officer Fyfe, and counter charges against other members of the force.

J. Boultbee appeared for the prosecution on behalf of the city. Mr. Campbell, representing Corbould, McColl & Jenns, appeared for Chief Stewart. A. St. Geo. Hammersley, of Drake, Jackson & Company appeared for Sergeant McLaren and Officer Abray. Mr. McPhillips for Officer Fyfe.

The resolution passed by the police committee and adopted by the council was first read. It provided for the investigation and was the legal ground on which action had been taken. The first charge against Chief of Police J. M. Stewart was read as follows: "That on the 3rd day of July, A. D. 1889, one Peter Marx was charged with supplying intoxicants to Indians and found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $50, or in default two months' imprisonment. That said Marx was imprisoned in the lockup at Vancouver and remained until the 6th day of August, whereas he should have served until the 3rd day of September. That on the 6th day of August the defendant was discharged on payment of $20, the money being paid to the city on 10th day of September. Witness to prove this. (Sgd.) M. A. McLean.

After some questioning His Lordship decided to hold this charge over, and the second charge as follows was read: That on the 14th day of November, A.D. 1888, one Joseph Morgan was convicted on the information of V. W. Haywood of selling liquor to Indians. That after the defendant was convicted and fined $50 and costs the name of the complainant was altered by the Chief of Police to John Clough, and that only one moiety of the fine was returned to the City Treasurer. Witness, V. W. Haywood; informer, J. Clough.

The nature of the facts were explained by Mr. Boultbee, and after lunch the first charge was taken up and evidence given which went to show that the charges were founded on facts. His Lordship then directed that the second charge be taken up.

The evidence of Officer Haywood, J. Clough, M. A. McLean, J. Devine, city auditor, P. F. McGuigan, city clerk, was taken. The evidence of the city auditor showed that there were discrepancies in the books. The city solicitor's evidence gave proof that since the prosecution had been prepared, Chief Stewart had no opportunity to look over the books used by the city solicitor, to assist in preparing a defence.

The third charge read by the prosecution was to the effect that on the 23rd of October, 1888, Officers Haywood and Abray had seized a quantity of gin from the Indians, sold to them by Mr. Urquhart, who had been fined $100 and costs and the liquor ordered to be destroyed; that the Chief of Police had sold the liquor so seized and applied the proceeds to his own benefit.

Evidence at some length was taken on this charge, when the fourth charge was taken up. It went to show that one M. Thomas was fined on the 3rd of September for using abusive and threatening language, the fine being $3 and costs, which was not returned to the City.

By request of counsel an adjournment was asked for and granted, His Lordship making expression of a wish that those accused should be made thoroughly aware of the nature of the charges, that they might be prepared.

St. Ann's Bazaar.

The following were the principal drawings at this bazaar: Mrs. Theodore Davis, oil paintings; Mrs. Walthers, lambrequin; J. Montague Leet, lace handkerchief; S. Perry Mills, oil paintings; Mr. Reisterer, Vancouver, two chairs and fender stools.

Dangerously Ill.

W. D. Ferris, of the firm of Carter & Ferris, received a telegram this afternoon stating that his father, W. D. Ferris, J. P., of New Westminster, was dangerously ill at his residence in that city and was not expected to recover. Mr. Ferris left at once by the steamer Yosemite for New Westminster. Those who had the pleasure of knowing the good and kind old gentleman referred to, will regret to learn of his illness.

The Stamford Joint.

Samples of the Stamford joint made on the sewer pipe for the Johnson street sewer, were to-day taken to the city surveyor's office for approval. The specifications for the sewer call for the Stamford joint, but there was none in the city who fully understood making it, except Mr. W. H. R. Hall. Negotiations were entered into between that gentleman and the contractor, and $200 was paid him as a bonus for imparting the method of making the joint, which is said to be the best kind made.

Terrific Explosion.

A serious disaster occurred at Shields on the 4th inst., where the Italian armored war ship Formidable was loading gunpowder and cartridges. Through an accident some of the hoisting machinery became unmanageable, and a package of cartridges dropped from a considerable height to the deck of the vessel, causing a terrific explosion. The naval officer who was in charge of the work and several of his men were instantly killed and a number of others seriously injured. The explosion set fire to the woodwork on the deck, but this was soon extinguished.

Cowichan Lake.

The logging party under Mr. A. C. Fraser has commenced work by making a road from the hotel to Dr. Dickson's cottage, at the foot of the lake, from whence they have rafted over teams of horses and bullocks.

There are large numbers of salmon here, and several are taken daily trolling.

Dr. Herridan had a nice basket of lake and sea trout last evening.

The following parties have visited the hotel: Mr. W. C. Duncan, Mr. R. Maude, Dr. and Mrs. Herridan (H. M. S. Swiftsure), Messrs. A. C. Fraser, Angus Bell, T. Blackstone, J. C. Maitland, J. McMahon, D. Cameron, Angus McKay, T. Collins, M. Norton, Lieut. Bremner, R. N.

Turning Over a New Leaf.

The people of Tacoma have decided at a public indignation meeting that liquor licenses must be fixed at $1000, and that they must not be located in the residence portion of the city. The following resolution was also passed unanimously:

WHEREAS, Attempts have been recently made by highwaymen and midnight assassins to rob several of Tacoma's respected citizens, culminating in the assassination of an innocent young man on one of our most prominent thoroughfares, and

WHEREAS, It appears that the city is wholly without light on some of its principal streets, and but poorly lighted on any, such want of even decent or reasonable lighting facilities commencurate with the growth, property and present size and commercial importance of our city, being an encouragement to invite crime and lawlessness throughout our borders, therefore be it

RESOLVED, By the citizens here assembled, that the city council be urged to take immediate steps to require that this city be thoroughly and completely lighted with good and efficient electric lights throughout all of its prominent streets and avenues wherever expedient and necessary.

The determination of the Victoria council to have a well-lighted city at any cost can never be too much commended.

ADMIRAL HENEAGE.

The Privy Council Consider and Report on His Action in the Hustede Affair.

Regret Expressed at What Occurred—Dalton McCarthy in Montreal.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—The dispatch from Montreal stating that an order had been received from the British war office, requiring full information regarding the facilities for transportation of troops from one part of Canada to another, indicating a possible rupture between Great Britain and the United States, receives little credence here. It was understood, and generally noted in Canadian newspapers some time ago, that the British government had ordered considerable information from the department of Railways and Canals concerning Canadian railways and their operations. What this information was wanted for has not transpired. But it is thought the Montreal correspondent has evidently seized hold of the most improbable use to which such information would be put.

SUICIDE.

Winnipeg, Oct. 12—An old German named Henry Kern, committed suicide by shooting himself last night. He came here from Fergus Falls, Minn., and claimed that he was ill-treated by his sons.

FATAL FALL.

Nicholas McLeod fell off a load of hay at Gladstone and was instantly killed.

TERRIBLE BOILER EXPLOSION.

Wm. Paul and Charles Fraser, two residents of Rat Portage, were blown to pieces by the boiler of a threshing machine exploding in Dakota on Monday.

ERECTION OF ELEVATORS.

No less than twenty new elevators are now approaching completion throughout the province. Between them they will increase the storage capacity of the province by fully 600,000 bushels.

M'CARTHY SPEAKS.

Montreal, Oct. 12.—Mr. Dalton McCarthy, M.P., addressed a public meeting in Queen's Hall last night, and the large hall did not afford standing room for all those who attended. In his speech the whole subject of the Jesuits' estate legislation was discussed, with special reference to the dual language system and the grant of $60,000 to Protestant education, both of which were condemned.

CAT O'-NINE TAILS APPLIED.

Guelph, Oct. 12.—William Leader, Patrick Shady and William Turnbull, three young men, were found guilty of indecent assault on Elizabeth Richardson and were sentenced yesterday to two years' imprisonment, each to receive thirty lashes during his term. Two of them were married.

THE HUSTEDE AFFAIR.

Admiral Heneage was not Altogether Right—Regret Expressed.

Special to THE TIMES.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—At a meeting of the Privy Council yesterday, the case of Admiral Heneage in command of the squadron on the Pacific coast and the seized and towed out German vessel Hustede, laden with coal for the British fleet, from naval roads at Esquimalt, was discussed. The reason for the admiral's acting as he did was that the vessel was carrying the German flag. The German government complained to the British government and the latter asked the Canadian government to report on the matter. It is understood that the government have reported to the colonial office that the naval roads no more belong to the British vessels than to German ships as far as commerce is concerned, and regret is expressed that the German vessel had been so treated by Admiral Heneage.

MONTANA CATTLE SEIZED.

Conrad's Herd Held for the Payment of Duties.

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—The customs department has received information from Dr. Allan, the Fort Macleod customs collector, that he has seized 325 head of cattle, worth $8,000, which were being smuggled into the Territories from J. H. Conrad's ranch, Maple Creek, Montana. This is the third time the same company has been charged with smuggling cattle, but each time they have got off scott free. They are not likely to do so in the present case, and people here are wondering if Conrad & Co. are connected with the firm of L. G. Baker & Co., in the Territories, of which Mr. Conrad is a principal partner. At any rate the latter Mr. Conrad is a very extensive government contractor. Mr. Davis, M. P., has also some connection with the firm, and has worked hard and successfully to secure beef contracts for them.

MORRISON, THE OUTLAW.

We have never understood that Morrison's was a very heinous crime. If he did not kill a man in actual self defence, he at least killed one who was not altogether undeserving of his fate. Nor should we impute to Morrison anything very heinous in his long evasion of the law. We cannot reasonably ask a man who kills another under circumstances which are largely justifiable, to deliberately surrender himself to justice where, as the sequel proves, judicial mercy is finely strained. Morrison's mistake was that he did not leave the country, as we suppose he might have done had he so will willed. Nevertheless, extenuating as the circumstances were attending the homicide, Morrison is given fifteen years. "My God," said one of the jurymen, "I never expected such a sentence." It is perfectly clear, if this remark is correctly reported, that that juryman at least would have preferred Morrison should have been found not guilty rather than he should be made so suffer so severe a penalty, and doubtless this man reflects the sentiments of his confreres. A sentence, to be efficacious, whether commensurate or incommensurate with the crime, must in these latter days be in touch with public sentiment, otherwise the spirit of opposition is aroused, sympathy is stimulated, and pressure is brought to bear on the executive to secure commutation, or out and out pardon. Justice in this way is practically defeated. The man who goes to prison for a longer term than the public think he ought becomes a martyr, and the moral effect of the penalty is lost. Without doubt, in criminal cases, juries would oftener find against the culprit, were they assured that justice would be meted out to correspond with their idea of what it should be. There is a well defined notion among men generally that they have as perfect a conception of justice as the bench. Men may be wrong in this contention, but they think they are not, and so it comes about that a sentence which is not in harmony with public sentiment, invariably miscarries. Had the judge in the Mayhew case compressed his charge to the jury into the space of half an hour, the woman would have been hanged. As it was, puffed up with the idea that a judge was more than mortal, underrating the intelligence of the jury, and shocking the public by stooping to a long winded debate in which the quality of mercy was strained a reaction in the prisoner's favor was produced, and the cold-blooded judge received a fitting rebuke. Severe justice has never yet lessened crime. This has been demonstrated in England, beyond cavil, where capital offences have been reduced from several score down to two or three. Justice is what counts, nothing more nor nothing less. People will not endure severe justice any more than they will undue lenity. So long as judges are not to be depended upon in this respect, and especially so long as judges are prone to severe justice, the people will never consent to a material modification of the existing jury system. Nobody doubts the defectiveness of the jury system, but they will take a second thought before they will submit to its modification to the extension of the judicial function. It is quite true, that on the whole judges are disposed to be merciful, but unfortunately people do not gauge the bench as it averages by its sporadic exhibitions of hard heartedness and contemptuous disregard for public sentiment. One immoderately severe sentence will do more to upset public confidence in judicial humanity than half a dozen instances where judges have mixed with justice a modicum of mercy The matter stands at present about like this: The bench is suspicious of juries and juries are suspicious of the bench, and as long as this feeling lasts we need not look for a rectification of the abuses of the jury system.

THE ASIATIC MIND.

A writer in the North American Review, discussing "Europe in Persian Eyes," anent the visit of the Shah, propounds the question as to whether an intelligent Asiatic, after surveying the pomp and splendor of the capitals of Europe and the triumphs of modern science, would confess to a sense of inferiority of his own people. The writer concludes that such is altogether improbable, and bases his reasons on the essentially "feminine cast" of the Asiatic mind. The Asiatic mind looks at existence from a point of view entirely distinct from that of the European. With great astuteness in certain directions the Asiatic combines a simplicity in other lines of thought akin to the innocence of childhood, both of these qualities prevailing even in the most brilliant Oriental to a degree impossible in a European of equal intelligence. Hence a European is liable to assume, when he encounters this phenomenal Asiatic simplicity, that he is talking with individuals of exceptional ignorance and crassness, when the reverse is likely to be the case The Asiatic mind concerns itself but little with facts, and hence is but moderately interested in scientific discovery, and prefers hyperbole and poetic forms of statement to a precise narrative of events. What inventions may be credited to the Orient have been wrung from it by stern necessity rather than by a yearning for discovery and progress, or a greed for gain.

The Oriental also prefers finesse or diplomacy to direct action; artifice in order to gain his ends, rather than a bold grappling with the actual. While not lacking in courage and capable of enormous exertion at intervals, the essential characteristic of the Asiatic mind is a love for repose; his imaginative and reflective powers, although sometimes kindled with fervor of passion or ambition, incline rather to quiet meditation and devious wanderings among the mazes of mystical speculation. This is characteristic of all classes

Another feature that intensifies the Oriental's self content is derived from his religions. The great cults, the correlated religious forces of Asia, have not only added much to literature that is sublime and beautiful, but their theology is often elevating as well, and is quite sufficient to tax the reflective powers of the deepest thinker. The puerilities laid to their charge are of scarcely more moment than certain passages in the Christian Scriptures, which are not deemed to effect the essential truths of the Bible. As regards morals, Asiatics may justly claim that the example set them by the majority of the Christians they encounter, the bad faith, cruelty, rapacity, greed and licentiousness of those who vaunt themselves as better than Orientals, are not such as to arouse a burning enthusiasm in the bosom of the shrewd and observant Asiatic; nor is he slow to diagnose the pharisaism that thinly disguises the ambitious encroachments of European governments upon its territory.

The religions of Brahma, of Buddha, of Mohammet, are qualified to produce content, and the element of fatalism, so prominent a feature in Islamism, deepens this pervading content; content in turn is qualified to lead to self-satisfaction, and hence the Asiatic, profoundly satisfied with himself and his environment, considers himself infinitely superior to all others. The curiosity and surprise that the magnificent spectacles might arise do not, therefore, produce more than a passing impression. After a feverish round of sight seeing and dissipation in Christian lands, he returns to his country perfectly satisfied with its quietistic thought, its life of repose.

FRANCE AND ITALY.

Nobody puts France down in the category of the lamb-like, but certain it is there does not seem to be anything in her conduct to justify the bellicose attitude of Italy. Why should Italy seek a rumpus with France? It is conceded even by the Germans that to France Italy is obligated for the liberties she now enjoys. Gratitude, however, is not a cardinal virtue of nations, and Italy prosperous listens to and is perhaps actuated by the fears of Germany. In the light of the fact that the German and Italian fleets have combined, and that German preparations for war are indefatigable, Bismarck posing as the peace maker of Europe is the biggest kind of a European joke. The fact of the matter is, this Bismarckian peace-posing business is fictitious. Bismarck is not by nature a man of peace, besides, if he was it must have struck him that the ultimate of an armed truce is either disarmament or fight. Recently an article appeared in the Contemporary Review condemning Italy's connection with the Triple Alliance, and demanding to know whether England was committed to it. The article is attributed to Gladstone, and it is expected that it will be the subject of discussion in the next session of Parliament in an effort to extract from Sir James Ferguson some information as to England's relations to the national triumvirate which is disturbing Europe. The compact, offensive and defensive to which Germany and Austria are committed, and to which Italy is also a party, seems to be no rest guarantee of peace, and it is doubtful if it is so intended. If so, why should Italy bristle up to France. Such procedure instead of having the effect to stimulate the growth of the olive branch, necessarily forces France to seek an alliance with Russia, and this consummated it is difficult to see how England can stand aloof. Unquestionably the strain in European affairs originates in Berlin. Either Bismarck wants to fight, or else he wants to keep up such a turmoil among his neighbors, as shall justify Prussia's standing army. Disarmament in Europe would, without doubt, eventuate in a few years in a political revolution. The soldiers, freed from their duties, would have an opportunity to speculate over human affairs, and doubtless would become affected more or less with socialistic or at least republican ideas. The spectacle of France would be a constant incentive to this end. It would seem, therefore, that standing armies are inseparable from the present European polity, and the downfall of France as a republic the objective point of European potentates. On this and no other ground can we account for the perturbed state of Europe. The outcome will be that some day there will be a grand smash, and whoever gets the worst of it in the field will find anarchy at home. The caprice of monarchs the people cannot stand forever with the example of France, England and the United States before them, and perhaps the sooner the smash comes the better.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In answer to the enquiry as to why he supported the present government, Mr. Cunningham of New Westminster replied that he "was in sympathy with the provincial government because it has the only practical solution of the questions of the day." Excellent definition of British Columbia politics, that!

It is observed that the columns of those mainland papers which prate most about Imperial Federation and a united empire, are occasionally filled with vicious communications, which have for their object the creation of a bitter feeling between Victoria and the Mainland. Their ideas of unity appear to coincide with an occasional hair pulling match between neighbors.

Westminster Truth: The public meeting of Wednesday night proved one thing very clearly, that is, that those that attended it care much more for prospective spoils than for needed reforms. The candidate who promised to get his hands the deepest in the provincial treasury was the man wanted—no matter by what tricks he hoped to make his promises good so long as he made them good. Yet, these same people have for years abused those of Victoria for their success in this same direction.

Up to a week ago no less than 556 talesmen had been examined in the wearisome effort to secure a jury in the Cronin case in Chicago. The defence had exhausted seventy and the State fifty peremptory challenges. Each side is allowed one hundred, so that it is probable that the fight over this stage of the proceedings will continue for some time yet. It would be difficult to find stronger evidence than this case affords of the necessity for some change in the jury system of the United States. As in the case of Guiteau, who was given the widest possible margin to prove his insanity, so the court proposes to give the "removers" of Cronin a chance to prove their innocence, so that in case they are convicted justice will be vindicated beyond cavil. If a jury is at last secured, and conviction follows, faction will be silenced and the evil spirits of the Clan-na-Gael forever squelched.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—It would be a gross injustice to confound that standard healing agent—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—with the ordinary nostrums, lotions and salves. They are oftentimes inflammatory and astringent. This oil is, on the contrary, eminently cooling and soothing when applied externally to relieve pain, and powerfully remedial when swallowed.

—Mrs. E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, Warren county, N. Y., writes: "She has been troubled with asthma for four years, had to sit up night after night with it. She has taken two bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and is perfectly cured. She strongly recommends it, and wishes to act as agent among her neighbors."

A BLESSING OR A CURSE?

DR. TALMAGE SPEAKS OF THE COMING WORLD'S FAIR.

His Text Is from Ezekiel xxvii, 12: "They Traded in Thy Fairs"—Pointed Questions of National Significance Asked by the Great Divine.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 6.—The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., preached in the Tabernacle this morning on the subject, "The Coming World's Fair, Shall it Be Made a Blessing or a Curse?" His text was Ezekiel xxvii, 12: "They traded in thy fairs." He said:

Fairs may be for the sale of goods or for the exhibition of goods or a small scale or a large scale, for county or city, for one nation or for all nations. My text brings us to the fairs of ancient Tyre, a city that is now extinct. Part of the city was on an island and part on the mainland. Alexander, the conqueror, was much embarrassed when he found so much of the city was on an island, for he had no ships. But his military genius was not to be baffled. Having marched his army to the beach, he ordered them to tear up the city on the mainland and throw it into the water, and build a causeway two hundred feet wide to the island. So they took that part of the city which was on the mainland and with it built a causeway of timber and brick and stone, on which his army marched to the capture of that part of the city which was on the island, as though a hostile army should put Brooklyn into the East river and over it march to the capture of New York. That Tyrian causeway of ruins which Alexander's army built is still there, and by alluvial deposits has permanently united the island to the mainland, so that it is no longer an island but a promontory.

The sand, the greatest of all undertakers for burying cities, having covered up for the most part Baalbec and Palmyra and Thebes and Memphis and Carthage and Babylon and Luxor and Jericho; the sand, so small and yet so mighty, is now gradually giving rites of sepulture to what was left of Tyre. But, oh, what a magnificent city it once was! Mistress of the sea! Queen of international commerce! All nations casting their crowns at her feet! Where we have in our sailing vessels benches of wood, she had benches of ivory. Where we have for our masts of ships sails of coarse canvas, she had sails of richest embroidery. The chapter from which my text is taken, after enumerating the richest countries in all the world, says of Tyre: "They traded in thy fairs." Look in upon a world's fair at Tyre.

Ezekiel leads us through one department and it is a horse fair. Under fed and over driven for ages, the horses of today give you no idea of the splendid animals which, rearing and plunging and snorting and neighing, were brought down over the plank of the ships and led into the world's fair at Tyre, until Ezekiel, who was a minister of religion and not supposed to know much about horses, cried out in admiration: "They of the house of Togarmah traded in thy fairs with horses." Here in another department of that world's fair at Tyre, led on by Ezekiel the prophet, we find everything all ablaze with precious stones. Like petrified snow are the corals; like fragments of fallen sky are the sapphires, and here is agate a-blush with all colors. What is that aroma we inhale? It is from chests of cedar which we open, and find them filled with all styles of fabric. But the aromatics increase as we pass down this lane of enchantment, and here are cassia and frankincense and balm. Led on by Ezekiel the prophet, we come to an agricultural fair with a display of wheat from Minnith and Pannag, rich as that of our modern Dakota or Michigan.

And here is a mineralogical fair with specimens of iron and silver and tin and lead and gold. But halt, for here is purple, Tyrian purple, all tints and shades, deep almost unto the black, and bright almost unto the blue; waiting for kings and queens to order it made into robes for coronation day; purple not like that which is now made from the orchilla weed, but the extinct purple, the lost purple, which the ancients knew how to make out of the gasteropod mollusks of the Mediterranean. Oh, look at those casks of wine from Helvon. See those snow banks of wool from the back of sheep that once pastured in Gilead. Oh, the bewildering riches and variety of that world's fair at Tyre.

THE FAIRS OF THE WORLD.

But the world has copied these Bible mentioned fairs in all succeeding ages, and it has had its Louis the Sixth fair at Dagobert, and Henry the First fair on St. Bartholomew's day, and Hungarian fairs at Pesth, and Easter fairs at Leipsic, and the Scotch fairs at Perth (bright was the day when I was at one of them), and after them came the London World's fair, and the New York World's fair, and the Vienna World's fair, and the Parisian World's fair, and it has been decided that in commemoration of the discovery of America in 1492 there shall be held in this country in 1892 a World's fair that shall eclipse all preceding national expositions. I say, God speed the movement! Surely the event commemorated is worthy of all the architecture and music and pyrotechnics and eloquence and stupendous planning and monetary expenditure and congressional appropriations which the most sanguine Christian patriot has ever dreamed of. Was any voyage that the world ever heard of crowned with such an arrival as that of Columbus and his men?

After they had been encouraged for the last few days by flight of land birds and floating branches of red berries, and while Columbus was down in the cabin studying the sea chart, Martin Pinzon, standing on deck and looking to the southwest, cried: "Land! Land! Land!" And "Gloria in Excelsis" was sung with raining tears on all the three ships of the expedition. Most appropriate and patriotic and Christian will be a commemorative world's fair in America in 1892. Leaving to others the discussion as to the site of such exposition—and I wonder not that some five or six of our cities are struggling to have it, for it will give to any city to which it may be assigned an impulse of prosperity for a hundred years—I say, leaving to others the selection of the particular locality to be thus honored, I want to say some things from the point of Christian patriotism which ought to be said, and the earlier the better, that we may get thousands of people talking in the right direction, and that will make healthful public opinion. I beg you to consider prayerfully what I feel called upon of God as an American citizen and as a preacher of righteousness to utter.

CITIES SHOULD NOT DEPRECIATE EACH OTHER.

My first suggestion is that it is not wise, as certainly it is not Christian, to continue this vile and persistent attempt of American cities to belittle and depreciate other cities. It has been going on for years, but now the spirit seems to culminate in this discussion as to where the World's fair shall be held, a style of discussion which has a tendency to injure the success of the fair as a great moral and patriotic enterprise, after the locality has been decided upon. There is such a thing as healthful rivalry between cities, but you will bear me out in saying that there can be no good be come from the unseemly things said about each other by New York and Chicago, by Chicago and St. Louis, by St. Paul and Minneapolis, by Tacoma and Seattle, and all through the states by almost every two proximate cities.

All cities, like individuals, have their virtues and their vices. All our American cities should be our exultation. What churches! What public libraries! What asylums of mercy! What academies of music! What mighty men in law and medicine and art and scholarship! What schools and colleges and universities! What women, radiant and gracious, and an improvement on all the generations of women since Eve! What philanthropists, who do not feel satisfied with their own charities until they get into the hundreds of thousands and the millions! What "God's acres" for the dead; gardens of beauty and palaces of marble for those who sleep the last sleep! Now stop your slander of American cities.

Do you say they are the centers of crime and political corruption? Please admit the fact that they are the centers of intelligence and generosity and the mightiest patrons of architecture and sculpture and painting and music and reservoirs of religious influence for all the continent. It will be well for the country districts to cease talking against the cities, and it will be well for the city of one locality to stop talking against the cities of other localities. New York will not get the World's fair by depreciating Chicago and Chicago will not get the World's fair by bombarding New York.

RELIGION SHOULD NOT TIED TO MONEY.

Another suggestion concerning the coming exposition: let not the materialistic and monetary idea overpower the moral and religious. During that exposition, the first time in all their lives, there will be thousands of people from other lands who will see a country without a state religion. Let us by an increased harmony among all denominations of religion impress other nationalities as they come here that year, with the superior advantage of having all denominations equal in the sight of government. All the rulers and chief men of Europe belong to the state religion, whatever it may be.

Although our last two presidents have been Presbyterians, the previous one was an Episcopalian; and the two previous, Methodists; and going further back in that line of presidents, we find Martin Van Buren a Dutch Reformed; and John Quincy Adams, a Unitarian; and a man's religion in this country is neither hindrance nor advantage in the matter of political elevation. All Europe needs that. All the world needs that. A man's religion is something between himself and his God, and it must not, directly or indirectly, be interfered with.

CHRISTIAN CIVILIZATION AGAINST BARBARISM

Furthermore, during that exposition Christian civilization will confront barbarism. We shall as a nation have a greater opportunity to make an evangelizing impression upon foreign nationalities than would otherwise be afforded us in a quarter of a century. Let the churches of the city where the exposition is held be open every day and prayers be offered and sermons preached and doxologies sung. In the less than three years between this and that world's convocation let us get a baptism of the Holy Ghost, so that the six months of that world's fair shall be fifty months of that world's fair shall be fifty Pentecosts in one, and instead of three thousand converted, as in the former Pentecost, hundreds of thousands will be converted.

You must remember that the Pentecost mentioned in the Bible occurred when there was no printing press, no books, no Christian pamphlets, no religious newspapers, and yet the influence was tremendous. How many nationalities were touched? The account says: "Parthians and Medes and Elamites" that is, people from the eastern countries; "Phrygia and Pamphylia," that is, the western countries; "Cyrene and strangers of Rome, Cretes and Arabians," that is, the southern countries; but they were all moved by the mighty spectacle. Instead of the sixteen or eighteen tribes of people reported at that Pentecost, all the chief nations of Europe and Asia, North and South America, will be represented at our world's fair in 1892, and a Pentecost here and then would mean the salvation of the round world. But, you say, we may have at that fair the people of all lands and all the machinery of gospelization, the religious printing presses and the churches, but all that would not make a Pentecost; we must have God. Well, you can have him. Has he not been graciously waiting? and nothing stands in the way but our own unbelief and indolence and sin. May God break down the barriers!

The grandest opportunity for the evangelization of all nations since Jesus Christ died on the cross will be the World's exposition of 1892. God may take us out of the harvest field before that, but let it be known throughout Christendom that that year, between May and November, will be the mountain of Christian advantage, the Alpine and Himalayan height of opportunity overtopping all others for salvation. Instead of the slow process of having to send the gospel to other lands by our own American missionaries, who have difficult toil in acquiring the foreign language and then must contend with foreign prejudices, what a grand thing to have able and influential foreigners converted during their visit in America and then have them return to their native lands with the glorious tidings. Oh, for an overwhelming work of grace for the year 1892, that work beginning in the autumn of 1891.

A GREAT WORLD'S PEACE CONGRESS.

Another opportunity, if our public men see it, and it is the duty of pulpit and printing press to help them to see it, will be the calling at that time and place of a great peace congress for all nations. The convention of representatives from the governments of North and South America now at Washington is only a type of what we may have on a vast and world wide scale at the international exposition of 1892. By one stroke the gorgon of war might be slain and buried so deep that neither trumpet of human dispute or of archangel's blowing could resurrect it. When the last Napoleon called such a congress of nations, many did not respond, and those that did respond gathered wondering what trap that wily destroyer of the French republic and the builder of a French monarchy might spring on them.

But what if the most popular government on earth—I mean the United States government—should practically say to all nations: On the American continent in 1892 we will hold a world's fair, and all nations will send to it specimens of their products, their manufactures and their arts, and we invite all the governments of Europe, Asia and Africa to send representatives to a peace convention that shall be held at the same time and place, and that shall establish an international arbitration commission, to whom shall be referred all controversies between nation and nation, their decision to be final, and so all nations would be relieved from the expense of standing armies and naval equipment, war having been made an everlasting impossibility. All the nations of the earth worth consideration would come to it, mighty men of England and Germany and France and Russia and all the other great nationalities, Bismarck, who worships the Lord of Hosts, and Gladstone, who worships the God of Peace, and Boulanger, who worships himself.

The fact is that the nations are sick of drinking out of chalices made out of human skulls and filled with blood. The United States government is the only government in the whole world that could successfully call such a congress. Suppose France should call it, Germany would not come; or Germany should call it, France would not come; or Russia should call it, Turkey would not come; or England should call it, nations long jealous of her overshadowing power in Europe would not come. America, in favor with all nationalities, standing out independent and alone, is the spot and 1892 will be the time. May it please this president of the United States, may it please the secretary of state, may it please the cabinet, may it please the senate and house of representatives, may it please the printing presses and the churches and the people who lift up and put down our American rulers!

To them I make this timely and solemn and Christian appeal. Do you not think people die fast enough without this wholesale butchery of war? Do you not think that we can trust to pneumonias and consumptions and apoplexies and palsies and yellow fevers and Asiatic cholerus the work of killing them fast enough? Do you not think that the greedy, wide open jaws of the grave ought to be satisfied it filled by natural causes with hundreds of thousands of corpses a year? Do you not think we can do something better with men than to dash their life out against casements or blow them into fragments by torpedoes or send them out into the world, where they need all their faculties, footless, armless, eyeless? Do you not think that women might be appointed to an easier place than the edge of a grave from which to dying their pale hands and weep out their eyesight in widowhood and childlessness? Why, the last glory has gone out of war.

There was a time when it demanded that quality which we all admire—namely, courage—for a man had to stand at the hilt of his sword when the point pierced the foe, and while he was slaying another the other might slay him; or it was bayonet charge. But now it is cool, deliberate murder, and one shot at sea a bombshell can be hurled clear out at sea a bombshell can be hurled miles away into a city, or while thousands of private soldiers who have no interest in the contest, for they were conscripted, are losing their lives their general may sit smoking one of the best Havana cigars after a dinner of quail on toast. It may be well enough for graduating students of colleges on commencement day to orate about the poetry of war, but do not talk about the poetry of war to the men of the Federal or Confederate armies who were at the front, or to some of us, who, as members of the Christian commission, saw the ghastly hospitals at Antietam and Hagerstown. Ah! you may worship the Lord of Hosts, I worship the Lord of Peace, who brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus Christ, that great Shepherd of the sheep.

War is an accursed monster and it was born in the lowest cavern of perdition, and I pray that it may speedily descend to the place from which it arose, its last sword and shield and musket rattling on the bottom of the red hot marl of hell. Let there be called a peace convention for 1892, with delegates sent by all the decent governments of Christendom, and while they are in session, if you should some night go out and look into the sky above the exposition buildings, you may find that the old gallery of crystal, that was taken down after the Bethlehem anthem of eighteen centuries ago was sung out, is rebuilt again in the clouds, and the same angelic singers are returned, with the same libretto of light, to chant "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men."

DO NOT IMPORT FOREIGN VICES.

Again, I suggest in regard to the World's fair that, while appropriate places are prepared for all foreign exhibits, we make no room for the importation of foreign vices. America has enough of its own, and we need no new installments of that kind. A world's fair will bring all kinds of people, good and bad. The good we must prepare to welcome, the bad we must prepare to shun. The attempt will again be made in 1892, as in 1870, to break up our American Sabbaths. That attempt was made at the Philadelphia centennial, but was defeated. The American Sabbath is the last kept Sabbath on earth. We do not want it broken down, and substituted in the place thereof the Brussels Sabbath, the Vienna Sabbath, the St. Petersburg Sabbath or any of the foreign Sabbaths, which are no Sabbaths at all. I think the Lord is more than generous in asking only 52 days out of the 365 for his service. You let the Sabbath go and with it will go your Bible, and after that your liberties, and your children or your grandchildren will be here in America under a despotism as bad as in those lands where they turn the Lord's Day into wassail and frolic.

Among those who come there will be, as at other expositions, lordly people, who will bring their vices with them. Among the dukes and duchesses and princes and princesses of other lands are some of the best men and women of all the earth. Remember Earl of Kintore, Lord Cairns and Lord Shaftesbury. But there is a snobbery and flunkeyism in American society that runs after a grandee, a duke, a lord or a prince, though he may be a walking lazaretto and his breath a plague. It makes the fortune of some of our queens of society to dance one cotillion with one of these princely lepers. Some people cannot get their hats off quick enough when they see such a foreign lord approaching, and they do not care for the nitre into which they drop their knees as they bow to worship. Let no splendor of pedigree or any pomp and paraphernalia of circumstance make him attractive. There is only one set of Ten Commandments that I ever heard of, and no class of men or women in all the world are excused from obedience to those laws written by finger of lightning on the granite surface of Mount Sinai. Surely we have enough American vices without making any drafts upon European vice for 1892.

GET READY FOR THE FAIR.

By this sermon I would have the nation made aware of its opportunity and get ready to improve it, and of some perils and get ready to combat them. I rejoice to believe that the advantages will overtop everything in that world's fair. What an introduction to each other of communities, of states, of republics, of empires, of zones, of hemispheres! What doors of information will be swung wide open for the boys and girls now on the threshold! What national and international education! What crowning of Industry with sheaves of grain, and what imperial robing of her with embroidered fabrics! What scientific apparatus! What telescopes for the infinitudes above, and microscopes for the infinitudes beneath, and instruments to put nature to the torture until she tells her last secret! What a display of the munificence of the God who has grown enough wheat to make a loaf of good bread large enough for the human race, and enough cotton to stocking every foot, and enough timber to shelter every head—making it manifest that it is not God's fault, but either man's oppression or indolence or dissipation if there be any without supply!

Under the arches of the chief building of that exposition let Capital and Labor, too long estranged, at last be married, each taking the hand of each in pledge of eternal fidelity, while representatives of all nations stand round rejoicing at the nuptials, and saying: "What God hath joined together let not man put asunder." Then shall the threnody of the needle woman no longer be heard:

> Work, work, work!
> Till the brain begins to swim;
> Work, work, work!
> Till the eyes are heavy and dim.
> Seam and gusset and band,
> Band and gusset and seam,
> Till over the buttons I fall asleep,
> And sew them on in a dream.

Oh, Christian America! Make ready for the grandest exposition ever seen under the sun! Have Bibles enough found. Have churches enough established. Have scientific halls enough endowed. Have printing presses enough set up. Have revivals of religion enough in full blast. I believe you will. "Hosanna to the Son of David! Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord!"

> Through the harsh voices of our day
> A low, sweet prelude finds its way;
> Through clouds of doubt, and creeds of fear,
> A light is breaking, calm and clear.

> That light, the breaking day, which tips
> The golden spired Apocalypse!

A writer in the Forum contends that at the present rate of consumption the known anthracite of America will be exhausted within a few decades, the known bituminous coal fields of the carboniferous within a few centuries, and the bituminous coal beds of the cretaceous in the Rocky Mountain region within a millenium or two. He adds that while the stock of fixed carbons is so limited that its exhaustion is becoming a serious menace, the stock of bitumens in the rocks of the earth is practically unlimited. The fuels and illuminants of the future, he declares, will be rock gas and related bitumens.

The Light of the Immediate Future.

It has proven itself more safe, convenient, cleanly and healthful than any other illuminants.

No ignition from match stumps. No oils to explode.

No gas-pipes to blow up. No soiling of goods. No asphyxiation.

No vitiation of the air of offices or homes. It is strangely suggestive of recovered sunlight.

The secret of success in Electric Lighting centres in the coal pile. A dollar saved in fuel, is a dollar earned in dividends.

In the boat was a salmon net, about fifty fish, a cloth coat and some other articles, but there were no oars. The boat did not belong to any of the canneries, and whether the fisherman had been lost overboard or not could not be told.

All Past and Gone.

The annual fall fair is a thing of the past. The leviathan pumpkin and giant turnip have returned to their lair. The fat pig has been manufactured into pork, while the prize horses are with measured tread hauling the plow through the field whereon the prize oats were raised. The best dozen eggs have been fried with the delicious first premium bacon, and the prize rug, with an alleged dog worked in crimson with yellow eyes and a mauve off ear, ornaments the front room again.

Be Something, Do Something.

An item with the above heading appeared in last evening's TIMES and the following reply has been sent to it: "Yes, give us a chance. Discharge your Chinamen and let us get work. Half of the young men raised in Victoria are in the other towns doing what they can to get a living, while the Chinamen has their place at home. You can get one hundred young men on the other side working with the pick and shovel when they are ashamed to do it with Chinamen in Victoria."

Voluntary Praise of the C. P. R.

A couple of Victoria ladies who went east as far as Montreal via the C. P. R. and who returned by the same line, desire to express themselves as highly pleased with the road and equipment. They state that for comfort, luxury, and the kind attention of officials, this road is not excelled on the continent, and the magnificent scenery, of which they had heard so much about, was fully up to their expectations. From the time the train was boarded until they arrived at their destination, every attention was shown them.

This Evening's Programme.

The following will be Mrs. Scott-Siddons' programme at the Victoria theatre this evening, when it is expected the talented lady will be greeted with another crowded house:

Adopted a Constitution.

A number of gentlemen interested in horse racing and who are desirous to prune from the sport all fraud or trickery, have formed a club to bring that happy state of affairs about. As the names of the officers of the Victoria Jockey Club appear below, it will be seen that a guarantee is given that honor and fairness will be the lines on which races in future will be held: President, R. P. Rithet; vice-presidents, Thos. Earle and W. P. Sayward; treasurer, Hon. Theo. Davie, Q. C. Executive committee: Lieut.-Col. Prior, M. P., Thos. Shaw Dr. J. C. Davie, F. S. Barnard, M. P., Lieut. CM. Holmes, R. C. A., T. B. Hall, Hon. C. E. Pooley, Q. C., W. J. Macaulay, Capt. John Irving, Major Grant, W. Dalby, Walter Chambers, Ald. L. Goodacre, T. R. Smith, Major Peters, G. H. Burns, H. D. Helmcken, D. B. Gordon, J. A. Sayward, and D. R. Ross; secretary, D. E. Campbell.

At a meeting of the club last night it was arranged to have two days' races during the visit of Lord Stanley, the 2nd and 4th of November, four running and two trotting races to be the events.

Politics in Westminster.

Mr. Cunningham, ex-Mayor Dickinson and Mr. Jenns are before the electors of Westminster as candidates for provincial honors. That Messrs. Cunningham and Jenns will stand a contest is a foregone conclusion. Mr. Dickinson will probably allow himself to be nominated if a requisition sufficiently and numerously signed is presented to him. If a correct sense of the citizens' convocation last Wednesday evening could have been secured, there is not much doubt that the forces would have been found pretty evenly divided, but we cannot gauge the direction of the political mind of the city franchise, represented by over 1200 electors, from a few blasts of excited exclamation at a meeting of about 200 people, many of whom went there for the fun of the thing. It has been said that the discussions were carried on after a rowdy fashion, but such is not the case, except in the minds of those who make the mention, and who are certainly incapable of discriminating between rowdyism and the natural overflowing of superfluous animal spirits. Why should not the usually dignified citizens whoop and whistle a little bit if they felt so disposed?—News.

An Old Pioneer Gone.

At half-past six this morning Captain John A. Gardiner, a well-known figure among steamboat men on this coast, died of paralysis of the throat. Capt. Gardiner was connected with coast navigation boats for the past thirty years, during which time he commanded steamers, among them being the California, an American vessel trading between Portland and Sitka, the British steamers Fidelis, Otter and Enterprise and others. He was also at one time in the employ of the American government engaged in survey work in northern waters, and at different times acted as pilot for British men of war going north. He was a native of Newport, R.I., and in his 64th year at the time of his death. He leaves four sons and three daughters, all of whom are residents of the province. For some time past he has been in failing health, and latterly has been confined to the house by reason of illness. It was not thought that the end was so near, and his death was in a measure sudden, he succumbing to a very recent paralytic attack. The funeral will take place Monday from his late residence, Labouchere street.

WHAT PAUL SAYS.

He Repudiates Certain Statements Concerning Himself.

William F. Paul, who recently left the city in an open boat with a young lady, writes to THE TIMES from Seattle as follows:

I beg leave to deny the statement published in your valuable paper concerning me and Miss Norman. It was quite an accident that I did not reach the Amphion. When Capt. Cox lent me his boat the idea of pulling across the straits in his boat was the last thing I thought of; but you condemn me in your paper. Sir, I ask you to make a statement to the effect that I did not abduct her. Where we were bound for was on board H. M. S. Amphion to see my cousin Harry Howe. The wind and tide took me across the straits. I was in the boat from 9 p. m. until 7 a. m. I have my papers with me and I paid the freight of the boat, also the duty levied by the U. S. customs and the consul. It is false my owing money in the ship. One man alone aboard H. M. S. Swiftsure owes me £35.

WILLIAM F. PAUL.

STORY HE TOLD IN SEATTE.

The Seattle Times says that Paul called at that office to contradict the statement of the abduction, and asserted that the lady was his wife; he had been married for six weeks previous to the trip, which was entirely accidental; he also told a reporter of the same paper that he was about to return to Victoria where he had been residing with his wife before the trip. He says the whole story of the abduction was false, and blames the newspapers bitterly.

It might be added here the young lady who made the unwilling trip with Paul, told a TIMES reporter the particulars of the trip as published in this paper, and there is every reason to believe she speaks truly. The fact that Paul tells two or three different stories is indicative that he is apt to become mixed in his assertions.

A POET COMING.

Mr. Sladen of Australia Travelling Through Canada.

Mr. Douglas Sladen, the distinguished poet and literateur of Australia, arrived in Vancouver on Thursday and will arrive in Victoria this evening or at most within a day or two. He is accompanied by Mrs. Sladen and Miss Lorimer. Mr. Sladen has been making a tour through Canada and the United States, and has been much impressed with what he has seen. Canada welcomed him as cordially as our sister continent, for Mr. Sladen is a gentleman of genial manner, large learning, and admirable literary temperament. He has seen much of the world, and by reason of his rare culture, men and women of mind and reading have sought him out, and been enriched by acquaintance with him. Half a dozen volumes have appeared from Mr. Sladen's pen; notably among the collection may be named "Edward the Black Prince," "The Spanish Armada," "Australian Lyrics" and "A Party of Exiles." These splendid books have achieved a reputation and a renown in the two hemispheres of the world, they reveal in almost every line the true spirit of genuine minstrelsy. They are rich in thought and in idea as in metrical beauty. But though Mr. Sladen possesses strongly the real poetic nature he is singularly gifted in other departments of letters, writes a good short story, as well as he writes an essay, or pens an elaborate editorial. He is a philologist of high merit, and his abilities immediately attracted the attention of the editor of the Century Dictionary, who at once entrusted to his hands the Australian Phraseology which is to form part of that stupendous and scholarly work. At present Mr. Sladen is engaged on a poem, which will have the Loyalist for its subject, and he is gathering material in that direction just now.

Mr. Sladen, who will spend some days in Victoria, is collecting material for writing a work upon Canada's function in the British empire. He is a great loyalist, and he has formed such a high opinion of the Dominion that he is confident she is destined to occupy no unconspicuous figure in the history of the British empire.

Real Estate.

A house and lot at Russell's station was sold to-day by T. G. Rayner, for $1150. Five lots in Victoria West have also been disposed of at a total price of $1250. A real estate man estimates the total sales of the week at $75,000.

Coming North.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—The steamer Walla Walla sailed for Victoria and Puget Sound ports this morning with the following passengers for Victoria: C. J. Everett, E. Lequime, E. J. Millett, Miss M. Cressen, R. Lewis and L. Dovey.

Is it True?

Can it be true, as stated in a communication appearing in Truth, and signed by "An admiring" reader, that the corporation of Vancouver paid a bill at the last meeting of the city council "for gathering Dominion voters' lists." It has been known for a long time that the Terminal city was exerting itself to get up large voters' lists. Is it possible that it spends its money for such extraordinary purposes as these?

The Victorian.

The Weekly Victorian made its first appearance to-day and although we have not had time to overhaul it thoroughly, so far as we have gone there is nothing to complain of and much to commend. "S. Pica," under the caption of "Public Opinion," discusses local matters in an agreeable strain, while as to the editorial dictum which distinguishes the inside of the publication, we have some clean cut writing and no disposition apparently to step on anybody's toes. On the whole the initial number of the Victorian is creditable to the city and the publishers, and THE TIMES, without reserve or qualification, take this opportunity to express the hope that Victoria will extend a patronage to the new weekly commensurate with the enterprise and journalistic ability of the publishers.

A Tidy Craft.

The British bark Norcross, Capt. D. D. Roop, now lying alongside Turner, Beeton & Co.'s wharf, is one of the cleanest and tidiest vessels which enters this port. A landsman looking at her would notice her clean appearance in comparison to some ships which have been here, but to the nautical eye, which takes notice of detail, she is a picture of neatness. Her quarter deck is as white as a lily, while the bright work glistens with varnish, and the brass is polished to the last degree of brilliancy. From bowsprit end to taffrail order and cleanliness is the rule, and even the fo'castle, which in most merchant ships is anything but inviting, in the Norcross is light and airy, well ventilated and clean. The after cabin, and quarters of Capt. and Mrs. Roop, are pictures of prettiness and comfort, and their floating home is as cosy as a drawing-room ashore. A large stateroom is also reserved for Miss Roop who often travels with her parents, but is now at school in Birkenhead. The various devices adopted to save space and contribute to comfort, which were designed by Capt. Roop at the time the vessel was built, show that gentleman to be possessed of considerable mechanical skill.

On her late trip out here, while in the Northern Pacific Ocean, the Norcross was struck by a very heavy sea which rolled on board over the port rail. It swept the decks completely, carrying away boats, hatches, henecoops, etc. The second officer was at the time nearly killed, one of the after boats being thrown on to him by the force of the sea; the port rail was buckled in, and other damage done, but all this will be made good ere the Norcross leaves for England.

Lots of Eggs.

Eleven thousand five hundred dozen of eggs were received by Simon Leiser from the east last night. This lot loaded a full car and is the largest consignment ever sent west. Although the shipment is fragile, none were broken in transit, but what the result would have been had a railroad accident occurred can best be imagined. Probably poached eggs would have been a feature of the event.

Sale of Fancy Work.

The Ladies Aid Society, of the First Presbyterian church, will hold their annual sale of needful and fancy articles on Wednesday next. The sale will be held in the lecture rooms of the church. It will be opened at 2 p. m., on Wednesday the admission fee being 10 cents, and will be continued during the evening. A tea table will be spread at 6 o'clock at which the charge will be only 25 cents.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The regular weekly services of the Association will be held as follows: Young men's meeting to-night at 8 o'clock, conducted by Mr. W. J. Twiss. Sunday Gospel service at 4 o'clock, address by Rev. D. Fraser. Young men's meeting at 8:15, conducted by Mr. John Calvert. A special feature of the evening service will be the singing of old hymns.

Rapid progress is being made on the new rooms in Mr. Green's building, and the Association hope to occupy them by the second week in December.

The Association Recorder for October will soon be out. It is full of interesting Association news.

Marine.

The bark Norcross was towed around to this port from Esquimalt yesterday by the tug Lorne. She will discharge cargo at Turner, Beeton & Co.'s wharf.

A survey was held to-day on the recently stranded man-of-war Icarus, but the result has not been made public.

The steamer Rithet is discharging salmon into the Lebu and Tythoeus.

A race home is prospective between the ships Hustede and Lebu. Dollars on the latter are talked of.

The Corona will call here on Monday on her way to Sitka.

A gang of caulkers are busy on the steamer Rainbow.

The bark Norcross may go to Vancouver to discharge the cargo she has for that port. She loads salmon for the trip back to England.
